

Can turn L @ Oxford and plummet down with the cars, buses and taxis to Liverpool St, X George, then R @ Kent, then slice through the city canyons direct to CBD! Or U can take the back-street cafe route as shown via Stanley, Yurong, Cook Park, Hyde Park & Market St this back-street bike guide would have saved time in writing this all down - covers most of Sydney too! At bike shops, book shops & www.australiancyclist.com.au here's the easy bit - the bike path alongside Alison Rd and Anzac Pde - head all the way up to the big set of lights at Cleveland St, wait patiently for your turn to X over to the pathway on the south side Cleveland St, can X to the other side using the ped lights mid-way along, then scoot up the pathway alongside Sth Dowling St. Cross over the freeway using the 2nd ped Xing, then idle along Arthur St as you cross over Bourke and Crown Sts - then L @ Riley St and down to Oxford continue on Houston Rd, then L @ Day Av and then R into Doncaster Av, cross Anzac Rd at the lights then continue all the way to Alison Rd after leaving the heaving thoroughfare of Anzac Pde, L @ Boyce Rd and up and over to the mountainous pimple at Hannan St, and up to Bunnerong Rd. Cross with care to other side of Bunnerong Rd and along footpath to a L @ Wark Av, L @ Birdwood St, R @ Banks Av, at the end of Banks Av left around the circle and X Gardeners Rd at the lights and continue up Houston Rd

Just in case U were thinking
